The Follower

August 3, 2025

Have you ever missed a moment and wished you could go back and do it differently?

Maybe it was a conversation you should've had.

A door you should've walked through.

A prompting from God you didn't follow through on.

In Mark 11, Jesus approaches a fig tree, hoping to find even the smallest fruit. The tree wasn't doing anything wrong; it just wasn't ready. It looked alive, but it had nothing to offer in that moment. And that moment mattered.

What if Jesus comes to us in a moment—not to condemn, but simply expecting us to be ready?

What if He's looking for patience in us during someone else's outburst?

Or kindness when no one's watching?

Or faith when things don't go our way?

The fig tree reminds us that faith isn't measured by appearances, but by how we respond in small, everyday moments.

This week, don't just ask, "Do I look like a Christian?"

Ask, "Am I ready if Jesus comes looking today?"

You don't have to be perfect. You just have to be real.

Let's be ready, and willing, when the opportunity to bear fruit comes.
